Blue Cross convenes local nonprofits to create prescription program for healthy living

BOSTON, Dec. 4, 2017 /PRNewswire-USNewswire/ -- Today, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts announced the launch of its new social impact initiative, "Dot Rx," a prescription program designed in collaboration with Codman Square Health Center and five local nonprofits that leverages the resources and expertise of each organization to educate, empower, and provide opportunities to Dorchester families to improve their health.

Through the Dot Rx program, doctors at Codman Square Health Center refer families to meet with peer coaches trained by Union Capital Boston. Coaches meet one on one with families to discuss their health challenges and to set goals around eating, exercise, and engaging with the outdoors. Based on the families' unique goals, the coach connects them with free or reduced rate opportunities and resources available through Daily Table, the Dorchester YMCA, Healthworks Community Fitness and Outdoors Rx, a program of the Appalachian Mountain Club, and provides consistent check-ins to offer support and monitor progress.

"Most people we serve feel motivated to live healthier but they just don't know how or where to start," said Sandra Cotterell, CEO of Codman Square Health Center. "This collaboration means our patients at risk for high blood pressure, diabetes or other chronic conditions will receive coaching and encouragement to help them engage in the right programs for their needs right here in their neighborhood."

Individual nonprofits have tested prescription programs before, but Dot Rx is the first program engaging a health plan, multiple nonprofits, and a community health center – all working together to provide families with holistic programming aimed at improving the health of Dorchester community members.

"This program takes a unique approach to addressing deep, longstanding health problems that face our communities," said Andrew Dreyfus, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts President and CEO. "We're pleased that this diverse group of partners has joined with us to engage families in creating goals and supporting them in making healthy lifestyle choices every day."

In addition to guiding the development of the Dot Rx program model, Blue Cross has committed $1 million over two years in financial grants and pro-bono consulting from Blue Cross employees to lead the systems development, financial modeling, and program evaluation.

After an intensive, eight-month planning effort, providers at Codman Square Health Center began writing Dot Rx prescriptions in October. To date, 72 families have been referred to peer coaches. During the first six months, the program aims to engage 100 families in programming while tracking participants' behavior changes. The long term goal is to scale the program and expand healthy living prescription models statewide.
